Your eligibility for the Federal Work Study program is determined in the Financial Aid Office by reviewing the results of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Being employed in a Federal Work study job may reduce your eligibility for a subsidized Stafford loan. Students not eligible for a Federal Work Study position, may, nevertheless, be hired for a non-federal work study job paid entirely from the budget of the college department by whom you are employed. Stafford loan eligibility is not affected for students holding work study jobs paid entirely from college department funds. Supervisors will review applications and select applicants based on their job qualifications. Anticipated work study earnings cannot be applied to your billing statement. You will be paid bi-weekly throughout the school year according to the number of hours you have worked. It will be up to you to use proceeds of your check to pay your college account.
